EDITORIAL SCORES TRUMAN'S STATEMENT -- New York Hua-ch'iao Jih-pao, 4 Jul 50

Peiping, (Hsin-hua) -- The following editorial appeared in the Peiping Jen-min Jih-pao of 29 June 1950:

President Truman of the US made a statement on 27 June 1950 announcing US intervention in the Korean civil war to aid Syngman Rhee of South Korea, who started the attack but is now in a precarious position because of the North Korean counteroffensive.

Truman has promised increased military aid for the Phillippine's Quirino government and the Bao Dai regime of Viet Nam. He has also sent the US navy to protect Taiwan. Truman stated that the future status of Taiwan depends on restoration of peace in the Pacific, or on the Japanese peace treaty, or on the deliberations of the UN.

All of these actions are imperialistic invasion moves and are in violation of the UN Charter. They mean intervention in the internal politics of another nation and violation of the sovereign rights of a country.

Truman's statement on Taiwan is a direct violation of the Cairo Declaration agreed to by the US, Britain, and China on 1 December 1943. This declaration stipulated the return to China of all territory acquired by Japan, such as Taiwan, the Ryukus, and the Northeast. Truman's statement also violates the Potsdam Agreement signed by the US, Britain, China, and the USSR on 26 July 1943 [sic].

Finally, Truman's statement violates a fact which all nations, including the US recognize: after Japan's surrender, Taiwan had actually been returned to China.
